One dies, two injured in I-10 head-on crash

By ELLIS CUEVAS

One person was killed and two injured in a head-on collision on I-10 near the Hwy. 603 interchange in Hancock County early Thursday.

Ken Franklin, 26, of Dover, Ala. was pronounced dead at the scene after an inquest was held by Carl Banderet, Hancock Coroner.

Franklin, owner of a pickup involved, was a passenger in the vehicle driven by Coleman Compton, also of Dover, according to Highway Patrolman Hershel Ladner.

Ladner said the pickup was hit head-on by a sedan driven by Ms. Gloria Klondyke, 44, of Slidell, La., who has been charged with driving on the wrong side of the road. The collision is still being investigated, according to Ladner.

The two injured persons were taken to Mobile Medical to Hancock General and later transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

Ms. Klondyke was reported in fair condition Friday in the GMI Intensive Care Unit with a fractured dislocation of her right hip and amputation of her long finger on left hand, according to Ada Reid, hospital information officer.

Compton suffered a fracture of his upper right leg with abrasions and contusions and was listed in a fairly good condition in the orthopedic section of Memorial, according to Ms. Reid.

The accident occurred about 3 a.m., according to Ladner. Banderet said a watch on Franklin was stopped at 2:49.

Traffic was backed up for miles during the two hour clean-up of the I-10 west lanes. Ladner said that Ms. Klondyke was apparently traveling east in the west-bound lanes when the accident occurred.

The members of the jury for the coroner's inquest were David Garcia, Paul Bernard, Reggie Fayard, John Wilkerson, Edward Friloux, Richard Criss, with Hershel Ladner as bailiff. Death was listed as due to internal injuries, and injuries to the right side of his face, chest and head, according to Banderet.

Diamondhead Rescue was at the scene. The "Jaws of Life" were necessary to free Ms. Klondyke from the wreckage of her vehicle and Franklin from the pickup truck. NSTL's Fire Department dispatched a fire truck to the scene and Captain Paul Bernard and Deputy David Garcia of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department aided in traffic control. Edward Friloux, Richard Criss, Reggie Fayard and Nathan Hoda Jr. were the members of Diamondhead's rescue.

Franklin's body was sent from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home, Bay St. Louis to Foreman-Brown Services in Andalusia, Ala. for the funeral and burial.

Compton and Franklin were on their way to Morgan City, La. for off-shore jobs when the accident occurred, according to Ladner.

Lott contacts Longo

Officials' response slow to deep hole suggestion

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland has received only one response in his appeal to seven officials for assistance in filling the surf hole offshore from the city, which has claimed 25 lives.

However, most of the officials receiving Longo's letter said they plan to contact the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for advice.

The hole, located about 1,500 feet offshore from Gulfside Assembly Center and Bayou Cadet channel dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously.

Warning signs have also been placed on the beach by Waveland and the County Civil Defense installed markers offshore around the deadly hole itself.

The mayor is seeking a Corps permit to fill the cavity with barges and tires creating an artificial fishing reef.

Longo Friday reported, "U.S. Rep. Trent Lott this week said he would help us in any way."

Corps to prevent Beach Boulevard from erosion caused by storm wave action.

A quicksand mud bottom was added to the hole in 1979 when spoils from a nearby Bayou Cadet channel dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously.

Warning signs have also been placed on the beach by Waveland and the County Civil Defense installed markers offshore around the deadly hole itself.

The mayor is seeking a Corps permit to fill the cavity with barges and tires creating an artificial fishing reef.

Longo Friday reported, "U.S. Rep. Trent Lott this week said he would help us in any way."

"Lott said he would talk with the Corps and see what kind of a solution he can find," the mayor stated.

Longo noted he was 'delighted' to receive Lott's response and said the representative pledged to pursue as many avenues as possible to find a solution eliminate the deadly hole.

The mayor last week sent a letter to Gov. William Winter, Mississippi Senator's Thad Cochran and John Stennis, Lott, and Hancock County Rep. J.P. Cornprett, State Sen. Martin Smith and Board of Supervisor's President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar asking their assistance in securing a permit to build the reef.

County's second 1981 water death

Man drowns in Sound after shrimpboat sinks

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A seaman of Waveland and New Orleans drowned Friday morning after his shrimp boat capsized in the Mississippi Sound offshore from Bayou Cadet channel.

The man is Hancock County's second drowning victim this year.

A Slidell man, the county's first 1981 drowning victim, died in the nearby deep hole some 1,500 feet offshore from the park and Gulfside Assembly Center in Waveland.

Carl Banderet of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County coroner, Saturday morning said an autopsy completed at 9:45 p.m. Friday by Pathologist Dr.

John Rutherford III on Ralph H. Dougherty, 43, of Surf Street in Waveland and 1735 Lesseps St. found water in his lungs and stomach.

The coroner, however, concluded Dougherty might have died of a heart attack.

Banderet said most male drowning victims are found floating face down, but Dougherty was found floating on his back which led the coroner to believe the seaman drowned.

Ronald A. Peterson, county sheriff, reported Friday morning that Dougherty and his nephew, Joe Drago, in his mid-30's, of 5115 Taylor St. in Kenner, La., were shrimping about one-half mile offshore from the Waveland park in their 14-foot fiberglass speedboat when a wave swamped the craft from its stern while the two were pulling in their net.

The sheriff said Drago swam to shore at Bayou Cadet and hitchhiked to nearby Bayou Cadet to seek help.

Gerald Ulrich of Lakeshore offered his boat and assistance to rescue Dougherty.

Ulrich Friday morning said when he and Drago approached the sunken boat only the end of the bow remained above the water line, but they could not find SUNKEN BOAT—Page 2A

Hancock shrimpers say:

Season 'fair to good' but sale prices low

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock County shrimp fishermen report this year's catch is 'good' compared to the last two years but only 'fair' in relation to previous years.

However, they complain the prices for their catches are so low they are not making money.

According to many commercial fishermen docking at Bayou Cadet, low prices have forced them to start selling their own catches on the pier after returning from fishing.

"You wouldn't have seen this before," a fisherman who did not want to be identified said standing in front of a shrimp boat which had a sign "Fresh Shrimp" hanging from the mast.

In years past the shrimpers say they gladly unloaded their catches at two locations in the bayou; Foster's Seafood and Bayou Cadet Fisheries.

The two factories at the harbor buy the shrimp from the fishermen wholesale and later have that shrimp distributed to markets.

Foster's leases an area on the harbor dock from the Hancock Fisherman's Association. The fishermen in turn lease that land from the county.

Bayou Cadet Fisheries owns its own section of the pier.

Because Bayou Cadet Fisheries owns their dock, fishermen who lease space from them to harbor their boats are still selling the majority of their catches to the Bayou Cadet Fisheries.

Fishermen leasing space from the county feel no obligation to sell any of their shrimp to Foster's and therefore are willing to sell directly to the public in order to receive a higher payment for their catch.

Thursday the size of shrimp caught averaged 50-60 to the pound. Both fish factories were paying 65 cents per pound for the 50-60's.

Owners said they receive word on establishing the price of shrimp from Gulfport.

Fishermen on the county owned dock Thursday were selling their catches of shrimp at $1 or 1.25 per pound.

One fisherman, who would not give his name, stated "They (people who set the prices) know before hand what to pay for the shrimp."

"You can go out and find everybody's catching the same sized shrimp and PRICES—Page 2A

Dallas fugitive nabbed while seeking handout

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A man wanted by Dallas Police was apprehended by the Hancock Sheriff's Department as he sought County Emergency Relief funds Friday.

Investigator Alvin Ladner of the department Saturday said, "Walter Dupree, 22, who gave the address of a local motel applied for emergency funds at the sheriff's office Friday. Dispatcher Linda Sand in running a check on Dupree found that he was wanted for a probation violation and a felony indictment by Dallas police."

Ladner reports that Dupree is being held in County Jail without bond, as Dallas police are scheduled to pick him up on Monday.

The emergency relief agency, funded by the Hancock County United Way, has the sheriff's office check all applicants before issuing any aid.

Ladner said several other wanted persons have been apprehended by Hancock authorities through the same checking procedure in recent months.

In other police activities, the Bay St. Louis Police Department arrested two persons Friday night when their vehicle was spotted being operated in a reckless manner.

Chief Douglas Williams stated, "Kenneth J. Quintini, 25, 6212 Waldo Drive, New Orleans; and Everett Mitchell, 21, 544 Folse St., Riveridge, La. were arrested by Patrolmen Chris Sand and Judge Flood when their vehicle was stopped after being operated in a reckless manner."

"Police saw marijuana on the dashboard of the car and found some pills thought to be of a controlled substance. Approximately two lids of marijuana were in their possession," Williams added.

The two are charged with the alleged possession of marijuana and a controlled substance according to Williams.

While being booked Mitchell escaped from police as he went to the bathroom and is still at large. Williams said Saturday afternoon.

Quintini is lodged in the Hancock jail in lieu of a $2,500 bond and waiting for an appearance before Bay City Court Judge Joseph Benvenuti on Wednesday.

Mitchell's bond was also set at $2,500.

Obituaries

RALPH DOUGHERTY

Mr. Ralph H. Dougherty, 43, of Surf Street in Waveland and 1735 Lesseps St. in New Orleans, died Friday, June 12, 1981 in a boating accident in the Mississippi Sound near Bayou Cadet. He was a seaman.

Mr. Dougherty's body was transferred Friday from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis to Jacob Schoen and Son Funeral Home in New Orleans for funeral arrangements and burial.

MARVIN MCINNIS

A visitation for Marvin McInnis was held Friday evening at J.T. Hall Funeral Home in Gulfport.

His funeral was conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. from the First Missionary Baptist Church in Pass Christian, followed by burial in the Live Oak Cemetery.

Mr. McInnis, 86, of 620 North St., in Pass Christian, died Sunday, June 7, 1981 in Gulfport.

A native of Moss Point, he had resided in Pass Christian for more than 50 years and was a member of the First Missionary Baptist Church.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Copes of Moss Point, and several nieces and nephews.

MRS. ZELMA NAQUIN

Mrs. Zelma Lee Bennett Naquin, 63, 171 Felicite St., Bay St. Louis, died Thursday, June 11, 1981.

Born in Amite, La., she had lived in the Bay St. Louis area for most of her life. She was a member of First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis.

She was a widow and is survived by seven sons, Roger Tomasich of the Dedaux community, Henry Tomasich and Ray Allen Tomasich, both of Bay St. Louis, Wayne Tomasich of Kiln, Raymond Tomasich of Violet, La., Gary Tomasich and Robert Tomasich, both of Gulfport; two daughters, Joann Ladner and Mary Virdin, both of the Rocky Hill community; a sister, Agnes Guidry of Violet, La.; 23 grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Visitation was Friday at Riemann Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis on U.S. 90. There was a 2 p.m. funeral service Saturday in the funeral home chapel. Burial was in Senton Sand Hill Cemetery.

when you return you find that the size on which the price has dropped."

The shrimpers also complain the price of diesel is high and ice is unavailable.

On Mississippi's opening day Tuesday, the fishermen leasing from the county said Louisiana sport shrimpermen filled the parking lot with cars and boat trailers.

They said there were so many cars a tractor trailer delivering ice to the dock had to turn around and go home.

"There wasn't any room for him to back the trailer in," one fisherman said.

Fisherman docking at Bayou Cadet fisheries don't face that problem since ice can be contained in a large building.

The county owned dock and unloading ramp is an open-air operation and a trailer must be parked at the site.

Even when the trailer is available to the county fishermen, they say they do not have enough ice to accommodate their needs.

Shrimp fisherman Sherman Necaise, captain of the Uranus, said he travels to Gulfport to buy ice.

"There is only enough ice to accommodate sports shrimpermen," Necaise said.

He added he needs thirty 300 pound blocks for a days fishing. Even in Gulfport he is limited to 14 blocks.

Diesel is $1.15 a gallon he said and stated he uses five gallons an hour. The trip to Gulfport takes three hours, he said.

"It's a fair year but the prices are killing us," Necaise said.

Every time you get a good year they end up putting the prices down on you," he added.

"We're not making any money, just wages," he said.

Most shrimpers agreed they were not very many crabs were included in their shrimp catches.

Necaise said the number of sponge crabs (pregnant crabs) was limited and added, "It doesn't make sense. It's like killing all the pregnant women. There won't be any babies."

The numbers of small shrimp included with each catch does leave the shrimp fishermen with an optimistic view of the entire season.

They say the small shrimps pretty much guarantee that the season will be a long one since the little ones will eventually grow up to be big.

Dougherty after circling the area several times.

"We found the man (Dougherty) about 100 yards from the sunken boat floating face up in the water," Ulrich stated.

The two placed Dougherty's body on Ulrich's boat and returned to shore near a riprap pile in front of the park where local law enforcement personnel were waiting.

The Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources' vessel "Paul B. Johnson" arrived at the scene.

Peterson and Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department radioed the BMR vessel to request assistance in moving or marking the capsized boat to avoid further accidents.

However, Dorn reported, "The crew on the BMR boat said to just leave the boat out there because they don't have anyway to pull it out of the water or mark it."

Investigator Alvin Ladner of the sheriff's department Friday afternoon said he, Joe Cure of Bayou Cadet Fisheries and Orville Ferrell of Waveland went out in a large shrimp boat to retrieve the sunken vessel.

Ladner stated, "We tried to pick up the boat out of the water. We couldn't, so we towed the sunken boat to a nearby piling and tied it up so the vessel would not be a navigation hazard."

The investigator reported the Ferrell dove into the sound to tie a tow rope to the capsized boat and was covered with fuel which was leaking from the stricken vessel.

Jim Henley, BMR supervisor of enforcement, Friday afternoon in Pass Christian said, "We always offer to help and we're in the process of investigating this death."

"It is a policy of the BMR that we don't salvage boats, we offer assistance as a matter of routine," Henley stated.

When asked why the BMR boat did not offer to mark or tow the sunken vessel to a spot where it would not be a navigation hazard, Henley replied, "We were concerned about the shrimp net from the boat becoming tangled in our craft's propeller and the shallow water."

"The supervisor said the BMR boat draws some five feet of water."

"By law we can only assist and it's our policy not to salvage boats. Salvage or marking submerged boats is the responsibility of the U.S. Coast Guard," Henley stated.

"The sheriff was under the impression we had equipment to lift the boat out of the water. That would involve a lot of expensive equipment we do not have," Henley reported.

"We stood by until they were able to move the sunken boat," he added.

secretary, Friday in Jackson said, "Longo's letter arrived Tuesday, but the governor has not seen it because he just returned yesterday from a New York conference."

The press secretary reported that the letter has been referred to Charlie Deaton, the governor's administrative assistant for the Departments of Natural Resources and Economic Development.

"Deaton is alert to the situation and will discuss the matter with the resources department. He is going to have to study the situation to see what options are available and will recommend something to the governor," Crews said.

Buddy Bynum, Lott's press secretary, Friday in Washington D.C. reported, "We've asked the Corps for information telling us how we can best correct the situation."

"We should hear from them soon, the Corps is usually real responsive to our requests," Bynum stated.

Compretta, Friday in Bay St. Louis said he received Longo's letter and stated, "I don't know what we can do on a state level because this seems to be a local problem."

The representative reported he spoke with Lott about the deep hole situation during a recent trip to Washington.

D.C. "I don't know if an artificial fishing reef is a solution. Most of these reefs have been made by sinking old Liberty ships in 50-60 feet of water. If we fill in the hole there will only be two-three feet of water above the reef," he explained.

"I'm going to contact Dr. Richard Leard of the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources because it takes people with knowledge of this situation to find an answer," Compretta said.

"It seems like the hole should be filled up. This is a tragic situation and no one seems to want to take the initiative to do something about it," the representative noted.

"Both Smith and I have contacted several agencies including natural resources and the Attorney General's office and reached dead ends. Everybody is passing the buck," he reported.

Smith was unavailable for comment Friday and Saturday, but recently stated he would speak personally with Winter and Charlie Blalock, head of the resources department.

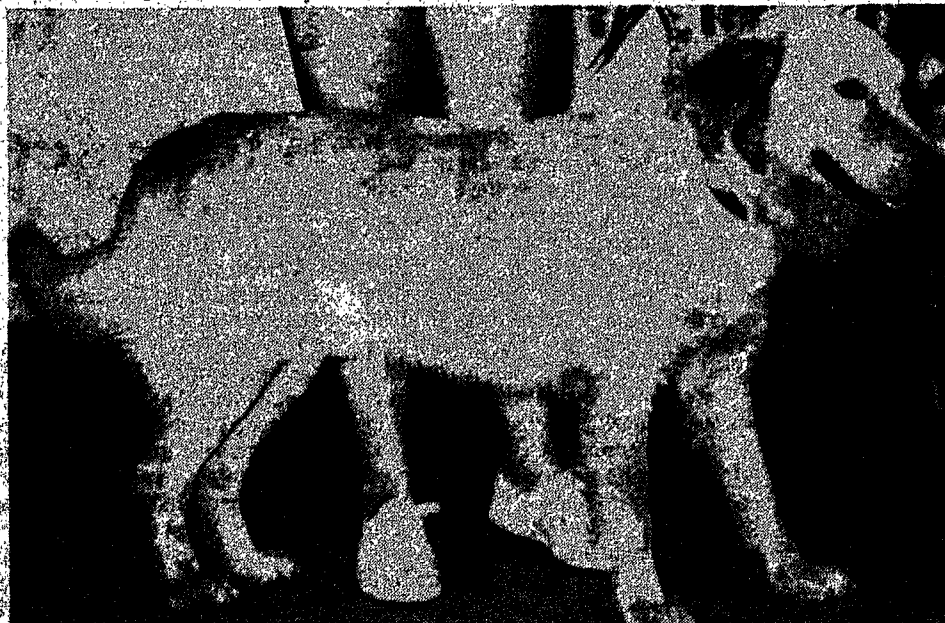

John Perkins, Cochran's press secretary, Friday in Washington said, "I'm sure we will contact the Corps."

Kellar Friday reported the deep hole will be discussed at the board of supervisor's meeting at 9 a.m. Monday.

There were 75 souls who plowed through the sheets of rain Wednesday afternoon to donate blood.

Those of you in the southern part of the county know just how hard it had rained and for several hours without let up.

We would like to commend everyone who braved the wet weather in order to attend the blood drawing. The donors, doctors, nurses and volunteers all should be thanked.

Lawns are beginning to grow by leaps with the many showers we are now witnessing after a very dry early spring.

This will mean cranking up the old lawn mower more often and the use of more fuel.

We have seen many just siphon the gas out of the old buggy for the mower.

Well, we do not know whether the additives in gas have changed or what, but siphoning gas can be very dangerous, according to one of our subscribers.

This gentleman told us how his son almost killed himself by getting some fumes in his lungs by siphoning gas. He also sent us a magazine entitled 'Family Safety' which had an article reporting on how even a teaspoon of gas in the lungs can be fatally poisonous.

We urge all of our readers to please be careful with gasoline, and keep it out of their mouths.

The waters seem to be full of shrimp this year and also shrimpers. One person stated it looked like 'Canal Street' with the boats out Tuesday on opening day for Mississippi waters.

We caution all shrimpers to please be extremely careful, carry all safety devices required by law.

Thunder storms have been numerous, so watch the weather. We have had some boat sinkings and one fatality to our knowledge.

Catch plenty of shrimp, but please do it safely.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran is asking citizens of Mississippi for recommendations for prospective nominees to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

In a statement issued from his

Capitol Hill office, Senator Cochran said:

"Judge J. P. Coleman's decision to take senior judge status at the end of this month will create a vacancy on the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

"My intention is to recommend a well-qualified Mississippian to President Reagan for appointment to this very important position.

"In order to insure that every interested and qualified person is considered, I am asking for recommendations and suggestions from the citizens of Mississippi.

"Letters should be addressed to Senator Thad Cochran, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510."

The Clean-Up and Beautification Committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce

BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

by Richard M. DeVos and Jay VanAndel

NEW POLICIES MUST ENCOURAGE BUSINESS

If America is to emerge from the economic paralysis which has plagued us for most of the last decade, policies must be adopted which reflect a realization that private enterprise—business—is the source of all economic life in our country. Many of the policies discussed by the new administration are perceived as "favoring" business—tax cuts, incentives to saving and investment, for example.

Many years ago, an American President said, "The business of America is business." That statement has been criticized by some in recent years, but it is no less true today. In order to live, we exchange the work of our hands or minds for the work of someone else's hands or mind. This is business, and it is the source of the unprecedented prosperity enjoyed by citizens of the United States for more than 200 years.

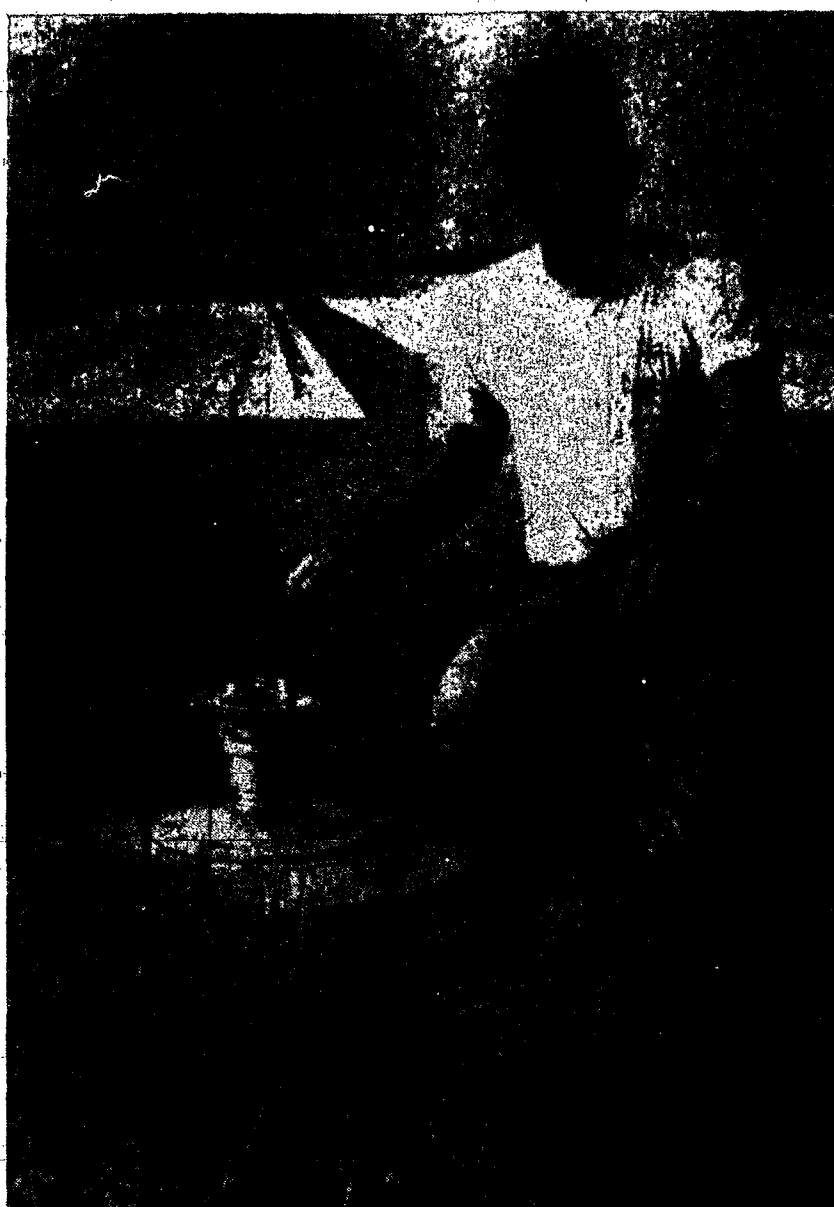

Regrettably, the reputation of business in America has declined among the general population and political leaders in recent years. Isolated actions of a few have overshadowed the contributions of the rest. Misconceptions about levels of profits and the end use of those profits have given rise to the caricature of the businessman as a fat, greedy, cigarette-smoking ogre, pockets overflowing with dollars hoarded for his own pleasures.

Those who produce and are successful are often criticized for their success.

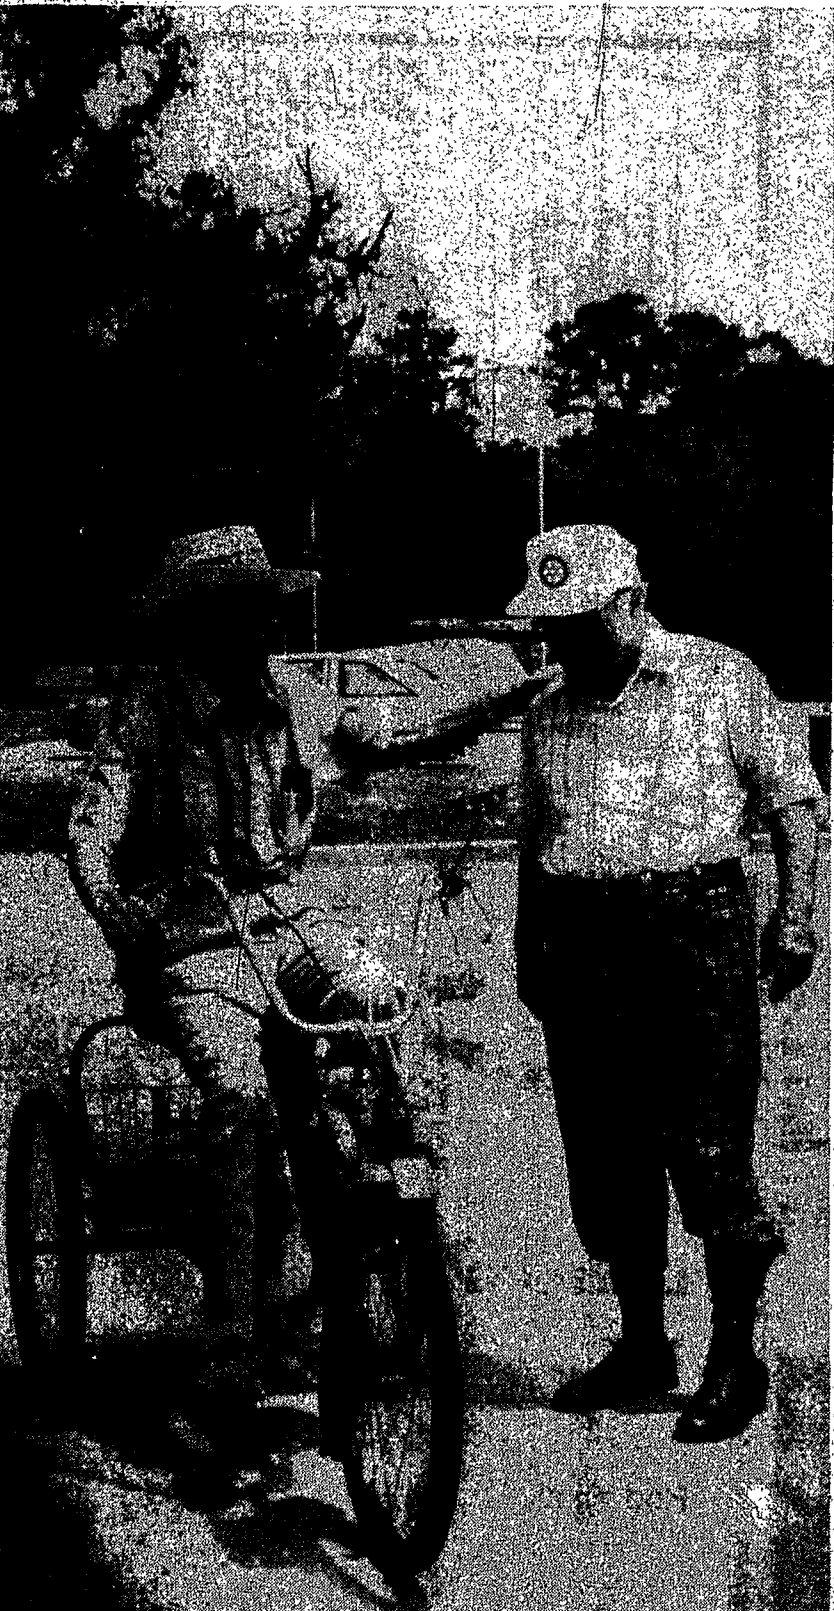

In The Fountainhead, Ayn Rand wrote: "Men have been taught that the highest virtue is not to achieve, but to give. Yet one cannot give that which has not been created. Creation comes before distribution—or there will be nothing to distribute. The need of the creator comes before the need of any possible beneficiary. Yet we are taught to admire the secondhanders who dispense gifts he has not produced above the man who made the gifts possible. We praise an act of charity; we shrug at an act of achievement."

To the extent that this has been our failing in the last two decades, this nation is now witnessing the cost of ignoring or disparaging the sources of production. The socio-economic policies of the eighties must be shaped to encourage innovative, aggressive business activity and an abundance of bold entrepreneurs who will invent new products, increase competitiveness in world markets, and create millions of new jobs in the United States. If that occurs, the largest of business will, as it has in good times past, be shared by all who participate.

Mr. Jay Van Andel is Chairman of the Board of Amway Corp., Ada, Michigan, and just completed a term as Chairman of the Board of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Richard M. DeVos is President and Co-founder of Amway.

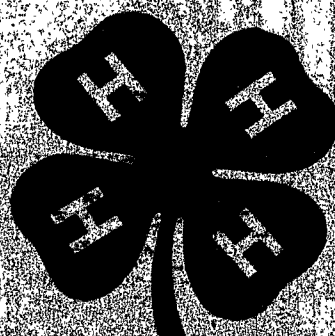

TAX DOLLARS WASTED—Andy Ewing, manager for Bay Aviation, Inc. who is fixed-base operator at Stennis International Airport, inspects one of 10 runway lights recently vandalized at the county facility. Ewing said the colored light covers were stolen and the bulbs were broken presenting a navigation hazard to planes landing on the runway at night. He reported replacement of the lights would cost the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission from $40 to $200 each depending on the type of fixture damaged. County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson noted his department will increase patrols at the airport to prevent further light damage. He added that individuals caught tampering with the lights could face malicious mischief or larceny charges depending on the dollar amount of damages. (Staff photo by Wayne DuComb Jr.)

VETERAN ROTARIAN—Carl Smith, left, gets some advice from Fellow Rotarian Orrin Pilkey during half-way point of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club's bike-a-thon last Saturday. Smith, 94, made the round trip for the second year in a row from Main Street, Bay St. Louis to Buicaner State Park. We think it is great for a person like Mr. Smith to be so active as he is for his age. He can be seen just about every day riding the streets of Bay St. Louis on his tricycle for exercise. Born-again citizen urges individual

contact with officials on hole problem

June 12, 1981
Sea Coast Echo

To the Editor and fellow citizens:
Re: Response to applauding readers of editorial

Greetings:

I don't feel that "Bravo, Sea Coast Echo" are the appropriate words to use concerning the notorious "hole."

I am sure that we can all agree that this is a very serious problem, and yes, it needs attention but how many people of this concerned community have actually attempted to find out what is being done to resolve this problem? How many seriously concerned people have said "What can I do to help?"

We elect these officials into office to serve our community when we sit back and complain about what they aren't doing.

Stop, people, and realize that we want them to do it all alone. Stop complaining and do something!

Stop using your officials as the "scape-goat" and get involved so that when you make a comment you will know what you are talking about.

In Thursday's letter to the editor by Mrs. Stevens she said, "Only a newspaper editorial can be so powerful."

That is true, but The Sea Coast Echo's editorials only have an impact on our immediate community.

It might interest you to know that the Board of Supervisors do not have jurisdiction over our "hole," that is Federal jurisdiction and the Federal Government does not give a "tinker's damn" about The Sea Coast Echo.

What they do care about is an influx of cards and letters from truly concerned Hancock County citizens about this problem.

Buccaneer Park is a state park. Write your state representatives and get them involved in the problem.

Be an active concerned citizen and not one that just shifts the blame from one official to the other.

I, for one, fall into this category of citizens. I have been quietly observing all of these "blame shifting" articles for some time now; I don't feel that I can just quietly watch any longer.

How many excuses can you "applauding" readers come up with to get out of this one?

Former resident urges unified support of Bay mayor in second term

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

It's been many years since I have lived in Bay St. Louis, but having family there, I still feel a part of the community.

I still remember growing up in a community where God-given beauty was in abundance; where children were free to grow in a safe environment; and where adults could work and provide for their families.

I believe this is what Larry Bennett has been striving for since he was first elected mayor of Bay St. Louis. I believe he wants what's best for everyone in Bay St. Louis, and will do the best he can for the community.

But it takes cooperation from everyone, not just a few. I hope that the people of Bay St. Louis will reflect on the past few years, and support Mr. Bennett in his second term to achieve the goals he has set for Bay St. Louis.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Piazza Spencer

High school fraternity service projects bring praises from teacher

June 11, 1981

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sirs:

I truly appreciate the positive coverage you gentlemen and ladies have given the young people of our community. As a teacher, I enjoy seeing the young people recognized in print and pictures.

Many of them have passed through my classroom, and have touched my life, so that makes the paper even more meaningful to me. We surely are overly blessed with some fine boys and girls, young men and women.

There is one group that I would like to call attention to this day. They belong to the high school fraternity named Phi Kappa. I knew they existed but I supposed that they only socialized and enjoyed each other's company.

My daughter Caytee and I have had to do many of the jobs about the house by ourselves because of my husband's long hours.

Last Monday, I tackled a job I could not handle. One telephone call to an ex-student made us aware that Phi Kappa was willing to help.

After helping a lady get moved to another house, I walked five of the finest, most handsome young men to help me.

In less than two hours, they had emptied eight years of accumulation from my attic so that I might get my junk heap organized. They were very courteous and quite thorough.

Phi Kappa is available for community projects and will help individuals who are otherwise at a loss as to where to get help.

They insisted that they would charge me nothing, but I know any donation will help them.

In the future, I will again help make toga outfits for their get-together, and there will always be a special love for this group.

My life is richer for being with them and my attic is now organized and safe.

If any of your readers would like to call on them, they may call Mike Barnes at 467-6828. There are lots of fine young people in our community and Phi Kappa is certainly among the finest.

A special thanks to our paper for sharing the events and stories about positive actions of our youth.

Keep on, keeping on,
Cathy Carter

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

In setting up an ad program, what is the best test of effectiveness I'm trying to get off on the right foot?

Dear Sir: There's no single answer to your question, for a number of factors have to be evaluated.

One, of course, is immediate results in terms of sales or prospects directly attributed to the ad.

But there can be a short-sighted test as it doesn't measure the "almost persuaded" group who saw your ad and considered your offer.

This group may act later, (by remembering your ad when they are in the market later) so they may tell someone about your offer even though there is no immediate response that you can measure.

Furthermore, you also need to be concerned about the cumulative effect of your ads as they reflect or create a public image of your business.

Immediate results at the expense of an image of quality service may prove to be counter-productive.

A good way to test your judgment is to subscribe to newspapers in which other stores of your type and which seem to have the same general goals advertise. You don't need to "steal" or "lift" their ads, but certainly you can get ideas to incorporate into your promotional program.

But more importantly you can probably assess their own efforts more objectively than you can your own. After a period of study you will begin to develop specific guidelines and parameters for your efforts.

Why it is possible to judge the efforts of others more effectively than one's own efforts is a mystery, but it is nonetheless generally true.

Again, the idea is not to be a copy-cat, but to develop a feeling, or a touch for "planning."

Don't study the same store's advertising continuously, but follow different ones, good and bad.

If you are like most businessmen you will quickly begin to develop definite opinions about your ad programs.

You will also be developing a set of definite goals for your overall business which, from a management point of view is critical for long-term success.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled "Brazil—Power To The South" by Robert Weason, senior research fellow at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University, is provided to The Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, syndicated of Claremont, Ca.

"As Brazil goes, so will go the rest of the Latin American continent."

There is some exaggeration, but much truth, in this statement made by President Nixon in 1974.

Brazil holds a place in South America roughly like that of the United States in North America. It is the fifth largest nation in the world—after the U.S.S.R., Canada, China, and the U.S.—and occupies almost half of the South American continent.

The Reagan administration is now quietly attempting to restore our traditionally friendly ties with this dominant South American nation, which were disrupted under the Carter foreign policy.

Relations between Brazil and the U.S. have been remarkably smooth ever since the U.S. warmly greeted the independence of Brazil in 1622. No common border causes frictions, there has never been a serious quarrel, and the two powers have not regarded one another as rivals.

Brazil, which alone of Latin American States welcomed the Monroe Doctrine and which has usually approved its application, has not felt threatened by the U.S. as several smaller Latin American Countries have.

Moreover, Brazil, half encircled by Spanish America, has been more inclined to look to the U.S. for support. It has especially leaned on the U.S. in its rivalry with Argentina, which during most of this century was the richer and stronger power.

Brazil acquired considerable strategic importance in the Second World War. In the first part of the war, as the government of Getulio Vargas flirted slightly with the Axis, Rio de Janeiro became an espionage and propaganda center and airport for an Italian airline, the chief means for the fascist powers to leap the British blockade.

This traffic was halted as Brazil definitely turned toward the U.S. late in 1940.

However, from the fall of France in June, 1940 there was much concern that Nazi forces might leap the Atlantic at its narrowest from French West Africa to the bulge of Northeast Brazil only about 1,500 miles away.

The U.S. was very desirous of garrisoning this then almost undefended territory and was prepared to promise Brazil considerable quantities of badly needed armaments in order to be able to do so.

After Brazil declared war on the Axis powers in August, 1942, the Northeast was turned into a huge air, naval, and communications base, very useful for operations in Africa and the Near East and for security of the South Atlantic, patrolled by the American and Brazilian navies.

In 1963-64 the U.S. again became worried that the Brazilian Northeast might serve as bridgehead for a different kind of totalitarian invasion, a radical-revolutionary movement favored and to some extent sponsored by Cuba.

In this impoverished territory of large landholding, peasant leagues seemed to be raising a banner of revolt that might overwhelm a weak government and spread over all Brazil.

From there it could spread across ungarrisoned frontiers to all of South America.

Hence the U.S. undertook a program of economic aid in the Northeast and looked in with favor as the military high command assumed power in March 1964.

dominant position on the continent.

Brazil has been something of a model for military regimes in Peru, Chile, Uruguay, and elsewhere, the more convincing because of its economic success and effective military-technocratic organization.

Brazil has also endeavored to expand its influence by political and economic means. It has been accused of meddling in military politics in several countries, such as Chile and especially Bolivia, a faction of whose armed forces has long been Brazil-aligned.

Brazil's relations with Paraguay have been very close; and Uruguay, under a military regime more or less inspired by the Brazilian, has gained almost a client state of Brazil.

Economic relations between Brazil and its weaker and poorer neighbors are like those between the U.S. and Brazil: the stronger power makes investments, sells manufactures, and buys raw materials from the other.

As long as Brazil remains under conservative military government, it will be difficult for much of South America to go strongly in a contrary direction.

If Brazil should take a lurch politically to the left, shock waves would be felt all around South America and a number of smaller countries might well be pulled after it.

The future importance of Brazil may be much broader. The Brazilian elite, with the undimmed vision of greatness commensurate with territory, hope to see their country not only the recognized premier power of South or Latin America but a prime actor on the world stage.

Brazil already has the largest economy of the Third World, and it continues to expand exuberantly despite inflation and debts.

It already is a candidate for joining the ranks of the major industrial states—its arms exports have risen to about $800 million in 1980.

Brazil sees itself as potentially one of the very "strongest powers" of the beginning of the next century, better equipped than major competitors: India is too impoverished and divided, Canada too sparsely populated, Japan lacking in raw materials.

With a population of approximately 120 million, Brazil has the largest underutilized agricultural capacity in the world.

It has magnificent resources of iron and many other minerals. Fossil fuels represent its most serious weakness. Coal deposits are mediocre, and there seems to be remarkably little oil for the huge area.

Uranium resources are at least adequate for the current nuclear program.

But in renewable energy resources Brazil is much the best endowed of nations. Its hydroelectric potential is variously estimated as high as 250,000 megawatts, thanks to very broad highlands with moderate to heavy rainfall. Even more important, plants capture far more solar energy in Brazil than in any other land, and so far as it proves technologically feasible to convert biomass into utilizable fuel, other countries can only envy Brazilian riches.

Already Brazil has taken the lead in the production of alcohol, mostly from sugar cane, and it will be more feasible for Brazil than any other industrial power to make itself independent of petroleum.

As fossil fuels become scarcer and more expensive, the advantages of Brazil will grow; conceivably it may lead the industrial world into the era of renewable resources.

CONSUMER REPORT

BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

"MAIL ORDER FRAUD... BIG BUSINESS"

Attorney General Bill Allain suggests that consumers should be apprehensive about sending their money to unfamiliar companies through the mail for products that appear too good to be true. Allain points out that thousands of Mississippi dollars are lost annually to unscrupulous mail-order businesses.

The ways in which consumers can be victimized through the mail are numerous and ingeniously varied. Some schemes are very simple—offering a product for sale and, after getting the consumer's money, not sending the product. Others are more complex—for example, soliciting investors for worthless or illegal business opportunities. Some mail fraud schemes appeal to our desire to improve ourselves—useless correspondence courses, inadequate job training courses. Some appeal to our desire for good health—for instance, cures for arthritis, tests for cancer, treatments for baldness. Still others appeal to our desire to make a living or supplement existing incomes—phony work-at-home schemes, even chain letters. With so many different kinds of frauds, individual caution is particularly important. Here are some general rules to follow:

1. Never order goods or services through the mail unless you know from reliable sources that the company is reputable.
2. Never make any purchase or contribution before consulting with someone who has some experience in the area of the particular service, product, or solicitation. For example, Don't make a large business investment without having an attorney examine the commitment you are making.
3. Never be taken in by the appearance of getting something for nothing—free prizes, extraordinarily low prices, very high salaries. It is a fact of life—perhaps an unfortunate one—that in this world no one gets anything for nothing.

4. Always report any instance of mail fraud you encounter. Keep in mind that mail order fraud involves any transaction where the mail is used at any point to misrepresent or to defraud. Even if you end up dealing personally with particular individuals, mail fraud is involved if initial contact is made through the mails.

Mail fraud is federal offense and is handled by U.S. Postal Inspectors. When you believe mail order fraud exists, hold all letters, including envelopes, and other evidence related to the scheme. Be sure you bring such information to the attention of a Postal Inspector in your area.

"REFUND POLICY"

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office suggests that consumers should be informed of retail stores' refund policies before purchasing merchandise.

Attorney General Bill Allain states that you should find out a firm's policy on returning merchandise before you make purchases to avoid misunderstandings.

Some stores' sales are final and there are no refunds or credit slips.

Some stores will make no cash refunds, but will allow credit on future purchases or allow the customer to exchange merchandise.

Others may give full cash refunds. The stores that operate under this policy are not legally obligated to do so. Of course, if a store advertises that it will give a cash refund if merchandise is returned, then it puts itself under a legal obligation to do so.

Consumers need to be alert and informed about consumer issues and problems in the marketplace. For additional information, contact your Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

County residents angered about state lieu land sales

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock county residents hoping to purchase Coahoma County lieu lands located in Hancock County are angered over the way the land sales were conducted by the Mississippi Lieu Lands Commission and Coahoma school officials recently.

Some 368 acres of Coahoma land divided into eight parcels and located in eight different areas in the two most northern townships of Hancock County were designated to be sold by Coahoma officials in January of this year.

The Coahoma School Board, which has jurisdiction of the land and land sales until July 1, 1981, advertised the sales in three January editions of The Sea Coast Echo.

The legal advertisement stipulated all bid applications be submitted to the Public Lands Commission, Secretary of State by Jan. 30, 1981.

Many Hancock residents interested in purchasing some of that land submitted their bids before that date. However, they say the Lieu Land Commission, which worked with the Coahoma School Board officials, opened the bids prior to a commission meeting May 22 in Jackson and "turned the bidding into an auction" during the meeting.

They claim that procedure was unfair since they were lead to believe no bids would be valid after the Jan. 30 deadline.

As a result, some residents who would have been considered the high bidder had there been no auction, were out-bid by other applicants who had a second opportunity.

Bill Allain, Mississippi Attorney General and member of the Lieu Land Commission, said the Commission "can have an auction for the land sales."

"Under the law, we do not have to accept bids at all," Allain said Friday. "We also don't have to advertise."

Allain said the only reason the advertisement set a deadline for accepting bids was, "to establish bids for the initial meeting."

"We cannot take into consideration a woman who has lived there (on the lieu lands) for 15 years. We are obligated to take top dollar."

Allain said Coahoma County could sue the commission if they did not accept top dollar.

The commission, after opening the auction bidding, later extended the bidding on five parcels of land for seven more days.

Letters were mailed to all bid applicants informing them of the extension. Michael Espy, public lands director, said.

Ladner said applicants were given seven additional days to submit bids and were also required to submit $2,000 with their applications.

Espy agreed with Allain that the Lieu Land Commission and school board can sell lieu lands through an auction.

He stated the only laws regulating the sale of the land concerns selling no more than 160 acres to the same individual in one year, and accepting the appraised value of the property.

Terry Randolph, Hancock County 16th section land manager, stated the land sale by the commission was not illegal in his opinion. "However, I think the sale was very unethical," he stated.

"Some people who thought no more bids would be accepted after the deadline, never went to the meeting in Jackson," he said.

Louie Ladner, a county resident who bid on approximately one acre of land, said he has consulted with two different attorneys.

Ladner said both attorneys said they felt the commission should have had to follow state bid statutes since the sales were legally advertised and a deadline date was established for accepting bids.

Edwin Pittman, secretary of state and the only other member of the Lieu Land Commission, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Espy said the commission would meet again upon Pittman's return and decide what to do with the five parcels of land sales which still have not been finalized.

He stated the three parcels which were not given extensions were "placed in the minute book but they are not official either."

Espy said he thought another meeting will be conducted to finalize all land sales after Pittman returns to work Monday.

Allain said more bidding could result at the next meeting.

Driver license photos delayed

A clerical error has delayed implementation of 1981 legislation requiring color photographs on driver licenses and identification cards for non-drivers until the Mississippi Legislature can correct the clerical oversight. The law was to have become effective 1 July 1981.

To implement the law, the Department of Public Safety needs 52 more employees—37 testing clerks and 15 examining officers.

The Legislature approved the 52 added employees and appropriated the money for them. But, after Governor Winter signed the bill, it was discovered that a clerk had accidentally omitted the 52 added employees from the bill the Governor signed into law.

Sidney B. Berry, commissioner of public safety, said that the additional employees approved by the Legislature are necessary to enable the Department of Public Safety to provide color photo driver licenses and identification cards to Mississippians.

The Commission of Budget and Accounting might have corrected the clerical omission, but commission members said the Legislature must correct the error in its next session.

Berry said that the agency has received 371 applications for employment as testing clerks.

These applications will be held pending action of the next Legislature session.

Berry said, "It is regrettable that a simple clerical error is delaying implementation of the expressed will of the Legislature on color photos for driver licenses and identification cards. I am confident that the Legislature will quickly correct the clerical error in its next session."

Port body negotiating removing 'albatross' DC4

The Hancock Port and Harbor Commission Thursday decided to meet with two different parties and 'just get rid of' a wrecked DC4 airplane located at Stennis International Airport the past three years.

The plane was confiscated three years ago when marijuana was found on board the plane after landing. While in custody at the airport a tornado picked the plane up from a northern landing strip and dropped the plane in a crumpled mass of metal some 100 yards away.

Last September, after remaining at the airport two years, Chris Hall of Waveland, offered to remove the plane for the commission. Hall intended to cut the plane up and sell the metal as scrap.

At that time Hall agreed to pay the commission $400 for the plane, a cost which the commission had decided to charge the owners of the plane for storage.

Hall negotiated with the owners, Paramount Petroleum, concerning parts he could sell as salvage.

Hall addressed the commission Thursday to inform them he has had problems trying to cut up the heavier pieces of metal and remove them from the airport.

Hall said the lighter metal has been removed but the landing gear and heavier 'timbers' remained.

"I need power equipment to remove the rest," Hall said.

He stated he had rented some power equipment but the equipment broke down after an hour of use.

He asked the commission if they would now allow Jim Rentals of US-90 west to remove the plane. He explained he still did not have title papers from the original owners.

Hall said he had contacted the original owners, Paramount Petroleum, signed necessary papers, returned them to the company, but never heard from the company again and never received the title.

Wilson Webre, executive director of the commission, stated, the commission did not want to be held liable for the plane and asked advise from board attorneys Robert Genin and Gerald Gex.

Genin said the company would still owe the commission $400 if they claimed ownership of the plane.

Hall said he could get Rental title papers.

The commission agreed to have Webre, Hall, and the Rental meet Friday to discuss removing the plane.

In other business the commission authorized Webre, Michael Smith, president of an engineering firm Advanced Development Inc. to meet and discuss suspending road construction work at Stennis International Airport with the company contracted to do the work.

Carter and Mullings Construction Company of Columbia, was contracted by the commission to install a water distribution system in a northern area of the airport and also pave the roads in that area.

Water-distribution work has been completed and only the road work remains, Smith said.

The commission is paying Smith $140 a day for resident inspection of the road paving work.

Smith said, "The company really hasn't been doing anything the last three weeks."

He explained the company sub-contracted the paving work and is having problems getting the sub-contractor to appear at the job site.

The commission agreed to have Smith, company officials and Webre meet to negotiate an appropriate suspension to save the commission unnecessary cost for resident inspection.

Smith said the job could be completed in two weeks if the company placed 12 to 15 men on the job to get the work done.

Also during Thursday's meeting in commission offices on US-90 and Hwy 603, the commission:

—Heard a report from Webre that the commission has received permission from the United States Corps of Engineers to allow dredging work and construction of a bulk head at Bayou Cadet.

Webre said the commission will consider doing the work if Elliot Casanova, a local contractor, will build an ice shed in the area.

"That was the purpose of applying for the permit," Webre said;

—Accepted the only bid from Dillman Roofing Company of $1,920 for construction of a roof on the fishermen's association building at Bayou Cadet.

Law effective July 1 expands notary areas

Secretary of State Ed Pittman reports his office has developed procedures for implementing provisions of a new Notary Public Law which was passed by the 1981 Session of the Mississippi Legislature. The new legislation changes the jurisdiction of notaries public.

Pittman stated that after July 1, 1981, a notary would be able to be commissioned to serve not only in his county of residence but in any or all adjoining counties. Pittman stated he had requested the legislature examine the problems which were being encountered by residents of one county who worked in an adjoining county and needed to exercise their notarial powers during the course of their employment.

Pittman also stated that in order to protect the public, the county notaries and $5,000 for notaries' bonds have been increased to $5,500 for single county notaries and $5,000 for multi-county notaries.

ETV Briefs

MASTERPIECE

A popular Masterpiece Theatre presentation, "Cousin Bette," will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV in celebration of the award-winning series' tenth anniversary.

"Cousin Bette" can be seen at 9 p.m., Sundays, beginning June 14, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Other series to be rebroadcast during Masterpiece Theatre's "Festival of Favorites" are "Upstairs, Downstairs" (selected programs) and "Sunset Song."

"Cousin Bette" is a five-part dramatization of one of Balzac's most penetrating novels from his satiric series about French society, "The Human Comedy." Margaret Tyack plays the title role.

The programs tell the story of a woman's vengeance on the family that has first slighted and then betrayed her. A poor relative, Cousin Bette is able to endure the condescension of her proud and once prosperous family as long as she sees them infrequently and is left alone to live cozily in her shabby apartment with her young protegee. He is an impoverished Polish Count-turned-struggling-artist whom Bette has supported for three years with her earnings from embroidering gold work. When he meets and marries the young daughter of the family, Bette's resentment turns into bitter lifetime revenge.

BLUEBERRIES

Poplarville will be the site of this week's "Farmweek" where blueberry production is the featured topic at 7:30 p.m., Monday, June 15, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program will be rebroadcast the following morning at 7:30.

Reporter James Booth travels to Poplarville where researcher Dr. James Spiers explains the latest technological developments in blueberry production.

Booth will also visit a commercial producer in the Hattiesburg area. "Farmweek" is a co-production of the Mississippi Center for Educational Television and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

SURVIVORS GATHER

Some 5,000 survivors of the Holocaust are expected to attend a one-time-only gathering in Israel to pay tribute to those who perished and to pass a legacy of commitment to later generations.

Mississippi ETV will carry Holocaust: The Survivors Gather, coverage of the event, at 10:30 p.m., Tuesday-Friday, June 16-19. Among the activities planned are dedication ceremonies, a memorial service, visits to kibbutzim created by Holocaust survivors, folk songs and musical performances, meetings among the children and grandchildren of Holocaust survivors and a discussion of how survivors view the resurgence of anti-Semitism.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID ANTHONY GARCIA

Garcia, Smith wed at First Baptist Church

Barbara Gail Smith became the bride of David Anthony Garcia in a 1 p.m. ceremony on May 9 at First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Pullin of Bay St. Louis and Billy E. Smith of LaPlace, La. The groom's parents are Morris Garcia of Bay St. Louis and the late Valmae Garcia.

Rev. Nathan Barber officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with an arrangement of white roses, carnations, cushion mums and baby's breath accented with rainbow highlights. Aisle pews were marked with white satin bows.

Nuptial music was provided by Karen Kendrick of Bayou Phillips.

Given in marriage by her father, Jesse P. Pullin, the bride wore a formal gown of bridal taffeta with a voile overlay. The Victorian neckline featured inlaid embroidered lace and the bodice was covered with a cascade of lace ruffles. Long bishop sleeves of voile were adorned with satin and lace trim and pearl buttons closed the cuffs and back of the dress. Her tiered veil of illusion was held in place by a caplet of matching embroidered lace.

attended the bride as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Melanie Smith of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride; Michelle Field Varnell and Helen Jackson both of Waveland.

Attendants were attired in formal gowns of rainbow colors, lavender, ice green, light blue and peach, featuring a scoop neckline, with wide ruffle over the shoulder extending to the back to form a soft drape.

They carried silk bouquets of rainbow carnations, daisies and baby's breath with matching satin streamers.

Regan Pullin of Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long dress of white dotted swiss with a Victorian neckline trimmed in white lace and white satin sash.

She carried a basket of blue and lavender daisies with baby's breath and rainbow streamers.

M. J. Garcia of Gulfport, brother of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Glen Jackson of Waveland, James Garcia of New Orleans, brother of the groom; and Jimmy Varnell of Waveland. Ushers were Bryan Pullin of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride; and Chris Sand of Waveland.

The mother of the bride was attired in a dress of can-delight polyester featuring Grecian pleats and elbow length sleeves. A corsage of yellow silk rosebuds completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Christine Garcia, step-mother of the groom chose for the occasion a dress of beige polyester with matching jacket and corsage of peach silk gardenias.

Grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Myrtle Warner, wore a scarlet colored dress of ribbed polyester featuring split sleeves which tied at the elbow. She wore a corsage of pink silk rosebuds.

The hall was decorated in white and blue with silver wedding bells. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and held a four tiered wedding cake topped with traditional bride and groom in a gazebo, and trimmed with white roses, silver leaves and swan pillars. Brass candleholders with blue tapers flanked the cake.

The groom's table was covered with a blue cloth and held a chocolate cake topped with a shy groom. The cakes were baked by Paul Bernard assisted by Eddy Jennings.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Mary Biehl and Mrs. Shirley Sagers, aunt of the bride, cake table; Louise Muse, guest register; Mrs. Judith Smith, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Bonnael Roberts and daughters Marquita, Ina, Zadia, Belinda and Charlene, food.

For traveling to Panama City, Fla. the bride wore a white long sleeved dress accented with navy blue brushed velvet vest. A corsage of white silk carnations completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Waveland.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Billy E. Smith of New Orleans; Mrs. Judith Smith, Portsmouth, Va.; and James Garcia of New Orleans.

Natural forest the setting for Walker, Shadoin vows

Deborah Jane Shadoin and Robert Jeffery Walker, both of Houston, Tex., were united in marriage on May 16 at 3 p.m. in W. G. Jones State Forest in Conroe, Tex.

Rev. James "Bo" Roberts of St. Marks Episcopal Church in Gulfport performed the double ring ceremony in the natural forest setting enhanced by a wedding arch covered with English ivy and banked with pots of white chrysanthemums.

Traci Shadoin, sister of the bride, served as Cross Bearer for the wedding procession.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R.

Shadoin Jr. of Houston, Tex., formerly of Biloxi, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace P. Gautier of Biloxi, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Shadoin of Bay St. Louis.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Walker of Spring, Tex., and grandson of the late Frances E. Hobart and Mrs. Rachel L. Walker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of the early 1800's era which she designed herself. Her jewelry was a gold cross given to her by her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. McReynolds Hicks of Birmingham, Ala.

The bride's sister, Kathy Shadoin of Houston, was maid of honor.

Mark Sutherland, cousin of the groom from Pasadena, Tex. served as best man.

The reception was held at the pavilion in Jones Forest.

Assisting at the reception were Karen Williams of Ocean Springs, Paige Williamson of Spartanburg, S.C. and Cindy Ensign of Houston. Traci Shadoin, sister of the bride, attended the guest register.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Walker will reside in Houston, Tex.

Out of town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace P. Gautier of Biloxi and Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Shadoin of Bay St. Louis; her aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gautier of Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williamson of Montgomery, Ala.; cousins Page Williamson of Spartanburg, S.C. and Buster Williamson of Fallas, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williams and family of Ocean Springs; Mr. and Mrs. James Tucker of Kansas City, Missouri and their daughter, Corlin; and Rev. and Mrs. James B. Roberts and family of Gulfport.

The ladies of the community will be baking Greek pastries that you can eat at the "Kafenio" (coffee-house) or take home.

Among the other booths featured will be a Greek Grocery Store featuring olives, cheese, filo, and other specialties.

A novelty booth with imported souvenirs from Greece, records, cassettes, eight-tracks of the latest Greek folk songs, T-shirts with slogans, jewelry, and the famous Greek fisherman's hat.

Greek cook books will be available.

Gyros sandwiches will be served for lunch, dinner, or a mid-day snack.

The honey-dipped doughnut

(loukoumades) will be made fresh throughout the day.

Bill Lemonides, chairman of the bazaar, along with his committee promise a fun day filled with music and good food.

The bazaar is a fundraiser to support the Greek Orthodox Chapel of the Gulf Coast.

There's an Answer!

Hard lump

Q. When my husband recently returned from the hospital after a nearly fatal accident he told me God had told him he must confess to me that he has spent 15 years in a continuous adulterous relationship. This revelation absolutely stunned me and is still incomprehensible. He is "a pillar in the church" and I too have been an active church worker. His paramour is our pastor's wife and my (supposed) close friend. My husband says the Lord has forgiven him and asks me to forgive him. I've said I forgive. Infidelity is a hard lump to swallow. Please help me cope with this heartbreak. There's no one I can talk to.

A. The relationship which you describe is, of course, rotten in the extreme that a pastor's wife and a so-called "pillar of the church" should so conduct themselves. That you are willing to forgive proves that you are a great woman and certainly a Christian of high order. And that is the only method by which this fracture of your marriage can be healed.

Perhaps your husband's brush with death has helped him get his values straight. Let us hope that with God's forgiveness and yours he will devote himself to winning your confidence and healing your marriage.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, MO.
QUESTION—Freebase, white powder, and baseball are slang terms for what dangerous drug abuse phenomenon?
a) Injecting heroin
b) Snorting PCP
c) Drinking Hashish oil
d) Smoking cocaine

ANSWER—The practice of smoking cocaine originated in Peru during the early 1970's. An elaborate do-it-yourself chemical process converts the typical street cocaine powder into a smokable and much stronger substance called "base" or "freebase." The purified cocaine base is smoked in a water pipe or sprinkled on a tobacco or marijuana cigarette for a sudden and intense high. The substance reaches the brain within a few seconds. Smoking cocaine is much more serious than snorting the drug.
Correct answer - d.

QUESTION—Smoking of cocaine can produce:
a) psychological dependency
b) Physical dependency
c) Addiction
d) All of the above

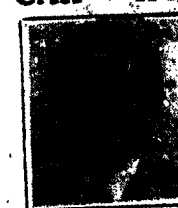

ANSWER—The euphoria of smoking cocaine quickly subsides into a feeling of restlessness, irritability, and depression. The freebase post-high is so uncomfortable that smokers, in order to maintain the high and avoid the crash, often continue smoking until they are either exhausted or have run out of cocaine.

An enormous craving results from the rapid high/low shifts, and the smoker tends to become compulsive, less able to control the amounts of the drug used. Dosage and frequency of use tend to increase rapidly. Cocaine smokers are likely to develop extreme dependency.

Manic, paranoid, or depressive psychoses have been reported in heavy users. Overdose from smoked cocaine can result in cardio-respiratory arrest, and withdrawal symptoms have been reported in some users.
Correct answer - d.

GET SET FOR SUMMER HEAT

78°

Remember that air conditioners bring comfort during hot summer months, but they also mean higher electric service bills. If you are a typical Mississippi Power residential customer you will use twice as many kilowatt-hours of electricity during the summer months as you used in April. We want to help you get the greatest possible value from your electric service dollar.

FILTER MAINTENANCE

Clean or change the air conditioning filter at least once a month. More frequently if necessary. A dirty or clogged filter will make your air conditioning unit work harder and use more electricity. A dirty filter may lead to serious and expensive repairs.

GENERAL OPERATION

If your air conditioner has been shut off during a cool night, give it an early start the next morning before a new day's heat fills the house. But remember, when starting the unit, don't set the thermostat on a colder than normal setting. This will only make the unit run longer, not cool any faster.

FREE PASSAGE OF AIR

Don't block the air flow the equipment needs. Keep shrubbery trimmed around the air conditioning equipment. Inside, make certain that you keep window drapes and furniture out of air flow path.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY RATIO

If you replace or repair your unit, select one with a high energy efficiency ratio (EER). The higher the EER number, the more efficient the cooling unit. Generally, an EER number of 7.5 or better is considered good.

Mississippi Power Company's Energy Management Handbook contains many more helpful suggestions to help keep Energy Waste out of your home. Pick up your free copy at any local office or we'll be glad to mail you a copy. Send your request to: Mississippi Power Company, Public Information Department, Box 4079, Gulfport, MS.

The pre-fair rummage sale sponsored by St. Ann - St. John to benefit the annual parish fair scheduled for June 19 & 20 will be held in the parish hall the first Friday and Saturday in June.

FLEA MARKET
DeLisle Community Flea Market is planned for June 13 and 20, 8-4pm, on the DeLisle Fire Dept. grounds. Fresh vegetables by lb and bushel, potted plants, handmade items, and possibly fresh seafood will be sold; plus individual rummage sales. The public is invited to participate with their own sale on these two days. No fee charged, no donations asked for. A garage sale of donated items—tools, clothes, dishes, etc.—will be held inside the building behind the firestation. Proceeds will be used for improvements of the barracks building which will eventually be used as a Community Building. For donations to the sale, call Stella Drevar 255-9102, or Irene Suddar 255-9363.

CHURCH FAIR
ST. ANN'S - ST. JOHN'S annual Church Fair will be held Friday, June 19, and Saturday, June 20, on St. Ann's Church grounds, Lower Bay Rd., Clermont Harbor. Activities get under way Friday at 5 p.m., Saturday at 4 p.m.

CHURCH FAIR—Father Lambert Stack, left, pastor of St. Ann and St. John churches in Clermont Harbor, holds up a sign with Edward Keamure advertising a St. John and St. Ann Fair scheduled June 19 and 20 at St. Ann Church on Lower Bay Road. Father Stack said games, food, bingo, a balloon tying clown and more are scheduled for the two day event. A cash prize of $500 will also be awarded to some lucky winner. Grand Knight Bob Hubbard urges Knights of Pere Le Duc Council No. 1522 to participate in the general election of officers Monday at the KC Hall, 8 p.m.

The Grand Knight reminds all active Knights who have received the third degree that they are eligible to cast a vote. This includes Knights who were initiated during the ceremony on May 31.

The floor will be open for nominations again Monday and elections of a grand knight, deputy grand knight, treasurer, financial secretary, recorder, and other officers will follow.

In our last column, Ed Friloux was inadvertently mentioned as one of those who filled in as an usher at St. Clare's.

However, Brother Friloux could not have been an usher as he was medic at the Boy Scout ordeal that weekend as previously stated.

Also that weekend, Brother Larry Burns, who was newly initiated May 31, was attending kitchen crew for a weekend curtillo held at Sacred Heart Center in Dedaux.

The public is invited to games at the KC Hall every Sunday at 7 p.m. Knights who wish to help in the calling of the games are encouraged to do so by Brothers George DiBenedetto, Leslie Blaise and George Hammer who work the games nearly every week with several other Knights.

Catholic maternity program serves Hancock residents

Catholic Social Services' Maternity Program offers a wide range of choices for the unwed mother and her family.

The services are provided for all women who are pregnant and requiring assistance.

People of all denominations are accepted into the program. Ages of clients usually range between the early teens and late twenties, although age is not a factor.

The program consists of routine pregnancy testing, individual counseling, prenatal care classes, access to maternity homes and mutual assistance homes, and counseling for the family of the unwed mother.

Counseling is also provided for the alleged father of the child and for his family should the need or desire be there. If a girl prefers to remain at home, weekly counseling is provided. During these sessions family problems, worries about prenatal care, career decisions, and other decisions to be made can be discussed.

Bi-weekly, the program offers prenatal care classes. During these classes, a girl

The Brothers state that they surely could use whatever help is willing and available.

Pere Le Duc Council boasts among its membership several Knights who are father and son, brothers, uncles, nephews, and cousins. There are Knights whose relatives helped to found the Council and were past members. They carry on a fine tradition as members.

Besides the actual good relationship among some of its members, there can be found a strong fraternity within the Knights of Columbus.

This brotherhood can often be witnessed at the meetings and especially during Council projects, such as the Tootsie Roll drive, the recent St. Mary's clean-up, and the Communion Masses held in all the county parishes where Knights attend.

The Knights band together with a single purpose—to serve the Church and its community. Pere Le Duc extends its fraternity to all Catholic men, 18 and over, who wish to join the order of Columbianism. Call Grand Knight Bob Hubbard at 467-3463.

We ask this week that you remember any Brother Knight who may be ill or in need of help.

In our last column, we neglected to mention that the funeral service for Nellus Favre was attended by former associate pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf, Father Louis Lohan. Our apologies, Father.

Rodney Arguson was to have participated in Sunday's ceremony, but his mother was rushed into emergency surgery. We ask for your prayers as we wish Mrs. Arguson a speedy recovery.

Our two hospitalized brothers are now released and convalescing at home, so we are glad to see Rodney Corr and Charles Sciana on the road to recovery. The Council sends its regards and hopes to see you soon at the meetings.

We ask that you pray for the families of our departed Brothers, Nellus Favre and August Scafidi Jr.
